

Amanda Burt Nomination Essay

I am honored to nominate Amanda Burt for WGAL's 8 Who Care award in recognition of her outstanding commitment to community service through her leadership of the West York Bulldog Pantry. Amanda is a teacher and started the Bulldog Pantry as a way to give back to the community and develop the students in her classroom. Amanda has dedicated countless hours of her personal time to ensuring that students and families in the West York Area School District have access to essential food and household items. Under her guidance, the Bulldog Pantry has grown into a vital community resource, providing consistent support to residents facing food insecurity. What sets Amanda apart is not only her dedication, but also her ability to inspire others. She has actively involved her classroom of special education students in the pantry's operations—teaching them the value of service, empathy, and civic responsibility. Through food drives, stocking shelves, and assisting with distribution, her students have become an integral part of the pantry's mission, creating a ripple effect of compassion and engagement throughout the school community. The students are the operators of the pantry and take great pride in their participation. Thanks to Amanda's leadership, the Bulldog Pantry has made a measurable difference in the lives of many families, offering both nourishment and dignity to those in need. Her and her students work exemplifies the spirit of volunteerism and the power of one individual to uplift an entire community. Amanda Burt is truly one of the "8 Who Care."
