

LeJon M. Roberts serves as a Police Major with the New Orleans Police Department, where he provides executive leadership within the Field Operations Bureau, the division responsible for the city's 24/7 public safety operations. With more than 27 years of progressive law enforcement experience, Major Roberts is recognized for his strategic command expertise, operational discipline, and commitment to constitutional, bias-free policing.

In his current role, Major Roberts oversees the department's most complex and high-risk operational components, including Special Operations and several of New Orleans' most violent police districts. His portfolio includes command oversight of specialized units such as tactical platoons, K-9, explosives ordnance disposal, marine and search-and-rescue operations, traffic fatality investigations, and violent offender apprehension teams. He also leads community engagement and outreach initiatives, serves as a departmental spokesperson, assists with budget development and resource allocation, and routinely assumes the duties of senior command staff. Central to his leadership was ensuring full compliance with the department's federal consent decree, sustaining ongoing compliance, and maintaining strong partnerships with local, state, and federal agencies.

Major Roberts has served as Incident Commander for some of the nation's largest and most complex public safety events, including the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival, French Quarter Festival, NCAA Sugar Bowl, NFL and NBA games, and major national special events, including Super Bowl planning. Previously, he commanded the historic Eighth Police District—New Orleans' most visited and high-profile area—where he managed large-scale tourism, special events, and mounted operations, and collaborated extensively with business leaders, hospitality partners, and community stakeholders.

A veteran instructor, Major Roberts teaches riot and mobile field force operations, SWAT tactics, and leadership development at both the departmental and national levels, including through the International Association of Chiefs of Police. He holds a Master of Public Administration degree and is a graduate of Northwestern University's Center for Public Safety School of Staff and Command.
