Dear Mr. Graham and Mr. Shuster:

Please find the attached report for the investigation requested on July 20, 2020 by your client, State's Attorney (SA) Marilyn Mosby. The Office of the Inspector General completed the attached investigation into the travel, gifts and businesses of your client.

With regard to travel, the investigation found that between 2018 and 2019, SA Mosby traveled out-of-town in her official capacity to attend 24 events resulting in her being physically absent from Baltimore City for 85 days. The majority of the trips were not paid for using taxpayer dollars. The OIG's independent verification determined that the total cost of SA Mosby's sponsored trips taken in 2018 and 2019 were $796.34 less than the amount she had reported on her State financial disclosures.

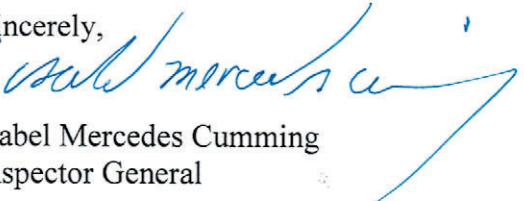

The investigation revealed that at least 15 of the 24 sponsored trips reported by SA Mosby were not submitted to the Board of Estimates (BOE) for approval. According to the City's Administrative Manual and internal Baltimore City State's Attorney's Office (BCSAO) policy, when certain travel conditions are met, elected officials must submit travel requests to the BOE for approval.

With regard to gifts other than travel, SA Mosby listed numerous gifts on her State financial disclosure forms; several listed on the 2018 form did not provide a value. The OIG found no evidence to indicate that any of SA Mosby's gifts had been auctioned at any past BCSAO event.

SA Mosby's three LLC companies were formed in 2019. Although the companies did not generate any revenue in 2019, they do appear to have been active, incurring $7,650 in expenses that year.

It is not within the purview of the OIG to make a determination as to whether SA Mosby fully complied with the State Public Ethics Law, including the State's disclosure requirements. The OIG will defer any such finding to the Maryland State Ethics Commission.

Sincerely,

Isabel Mercedes Cumming
Inspector General

FOR PUBLIC RELEASE REPORT OF INVESTIGATION

Date of Report: February 9, 2021
Case #: 21-0008-I

Introduction

On July 20, 2020, the Baltimore City Office of the Inspector General (OIG) received a letter from the Baltimore City State's Attorney, Marilyn J. Mosby (SA Mosby), requesting an investigation into the information she disclosed to the Maryland State Ethics Commission on her State financial disclosures, which included her travel, companies, and gifts (Exhibit 1).¹ SA Mosby's letter cited a news article published by the Baltimore Brew,² which SA Mosby alleged painted a misleading picture of her travel and finances and the requirements of the Maryland Public Ethics Law.

SA Mosby made the request for the purpose of showing that she had "abided by the ethical rules and regulations and ha[s] been fully transparent about any gifts, travel, or other financial activity." This broad request encompassed several topics of investigation. First, it encompassed her travel, some of which she had claimed as gifts on her financial disclosure statements. Second, it encompassed other gifts she had reported on her financial disclosure statements. Third, her request encompassed an investigation into three of her companies. Finally, SA Mosby requested the OIG give an opinion as to whether she was in full compliance with the Maryland Public Ethics Law, including the State's financial disclosure requirements.

Scope of Investigation

The OIG is a City agency established in Article X of the City Charter. The OIG's primary investigative jurisdiction involves City officials, employees, and contractors, but it may also investigate "potential violations of laws or regulations by any . . . external recipient of City funds, benefits, or services."³ The State's Attorney for Baltimore City is a State elected official established in Article 5 of the State Constitution. Accordingly, the position falls under the State's Public Ethics Law, not the City's.⁴ Therefore, SA Mosby's request for the OIG to opine on whether she has fully complied with the State Public Ethics Law—including whether she disclosed all that was required—is outside of the OIG’s jurisdiction; the State Ethics Commission is the appropriate authority to make that determination.

However, the City spent more than $70 million in general funds on the Baltimore City State’s Attorney’s Office (BCSAO) during calendar years 2018 and 2019, and SA Mosby’s salary is paid for by the City, which makes both the BCSAO and her position a “recipient of City funds.” Accordingly, the OIG agreed to SA Mosby’s request for a full investigation into her travel, gifts, and financial activity related to her businesses.

Methodology

In her request letter, SA Mosby stated that she was “willing to share with [the OIG] “any and all documentation [the OIG] request[s], including bank account statements, credit card statements, and inner-office financial ledgers.” On July 30, 2020, the OIG met with SA Mosby for an interview. During the interview, the OIG requested documents from 2017 through 2019. SA Mosby requested the years of review be limited to only two years, noting that media outlets had only questioned her 2018 and 2019 travel. The OIG focused solely on 2018 and 2019 records (Exhibit 2). Separately, the OIG requested records from the Baltimore City State’s Attorney’s Office (BCSAO).

Shortly after this interview, the OIG was informed that SA Mosby had procured private counsel from the law firm Kramon & Graham, P.A., to represent her during the investigation she had requested. All subsequent communications, including records requests, went through SA Mosby’s counsel. The OIG independently requested and/or subpoenaed source travel documents directly from the sponsoring organizations and/or hotels, some of which are located around the world. SA Mosby’s counsel asked the OIG to publish all written communications between the OIG and counsel in this report; those communications are contained in Exhibit 3.

The OIG investigation included reviewing thousands of pages of documents, including the following non-exhaustive list:

- Work emails for SA Mosby and other BCSAO staff
- SA Mosby’s redacted work calendars
- Hotel, flight and other financial records related to travel
- BCSAO credit card records
- City and BCSAO internal policies and procedures
- Redacted versions of SA Mosby’s 2019 personal tax return⁵
- SA Mosby’s 2019 redacted personal bank and credit card statements⁶
- List of BCSAO Winter Solstice auctioned items
- SA Mosby’s telephone records from 2018 and 2019

⁵ Although requested by the OIG, SA Mosby did not provide her 2018 tax return.

⁶ The OIG agreed to SA Mosby redacting transactions from her bank and credit card statements that were unrelated to the trips in question.

SA Mosby's Travel

A. SA Mosby's Sponsored Trips⁷

On her 2018 and 2019 State financial disclosures, SA Mosby reported 23 trips taken during those years that were sponsored/paid for by outside organizations or the City, at a reported total value of $27,811.99. According to SA Mosby's counsel, all of the trips were at the request of the sponsoring organization. Records provided by SA Mosby indicate that she attended the events as a billed participant,⁸ speaker, panelist, or otherwise participated in policy discussions with other law enforcement officials. On the relevant disclosures, SA Mosby separated travel from other gifts in "Schedule D: Gifts." The disclosures are unclear as to which expenses were paid for by sponsoring organizations, which by the City, and which by SA Mosby herself.

SA Mosby's counsel provided the OIG with a travel list compiled by SA Mosby and her staff containing updated details about SA Mosby's sponsored trips, including travel companions and corrections⁹ to the information included in the State disclosure forms (Exhibit 4). On the travel list, SA Mosby reported 24 trips in 2018 and 2019, with expenses totaling $27,538.53.¹⁰ The categorical breakdown of these expenses is as follows: $23,965.64 in travel expenses from sponsoring organizations; $1,737.50 in expenses paid for directly by the BCSAO/City; and $1,835.39 in reimbursements to SA Mosby.

The travel list revealed an additional sponsored trip that was not on SA Mosby's State financial disclosure. In 2019, SA Mosby traveled to the Salamander Resort & Spa (Salamander Resort) in Middleburg, Virginia,¹¹ which was sponsored by the Vera Institute for Justice (Vera Institute). On her travel list, SA Mosby indicated that not reporting this trip on her State financial disclosure was an "[e]rror on ethics form." According to records, SA Mosby was at the Salamander Resort for three paid workdays between August 28, 2019 and August 30, 2019. The travel list states that the trip cost $1,202 and was paid for by the Vera Institute.

The OIG gathered additional details about this trip since its non-reporting was considered an "[e]rror." The agenda indicated that it was a wellness spa retreat for selected elected prosecutors from around the country (Exhibit 5). The agenda included group events centered around "[h]olistic health and wellness," "[s]trategies to combat attacks," and "[s]pa and individual

⁷ This report considers "sponsored trips" to be travel sponsored and paid for, in full or in part, by outside organizations or the City.

⁸ According to the Maryland Public Ethics Law, a state official may accept gifted food, travel, lodging, or scheduled entertainment in return for participation on a panel or a speaking engagement. Md Code Ann., General Provisions Article, §5-505(c)(2)(vi).

⁹ SA Mosby reported that she did not stay overnight during an official trip to Cambridge, MD from November 8th to November 9th, 2018. The OIG found that the City paid the cost of the hotel for SA Mosby and so the cost is included in the total calculated cost of the trips.

¹⁰ This amount includes corrections made to travel expense/reimbursement amounts reported on the travel list.

¹¹ According to its website, the Salamander Resort & Spa describes itself as a "Forbes Five-Star resort...and the epitome of luxury." The website also says it is "[t]ruly dedicated to health and wellness." See <https://www.salamanderresort.com/about-us> wellness coaching sessions.” The OIG obtained records subpoenaed directly from the Salamander Resort indicating that the Vera Institute paid the $803.62 cost of SA Mosby’s hotel room for two nights and SA Mosby personally paid $309.13 in other expenses. The OIG also noted that this trip took place immediately after SA Mosby’s return to the United States after five days abroad in Kenya. SA Mosby had flown from Hamad International Airport in Qatar to Dulles International Airport in Washington, DC, and proceeded directly to the Salamander Resort. SA Mosby’s work calendar indicated that the Executive Protection Unit—SA Mosby’s personal protective detail, provided by the Baltimore Police Department—traveled to Dulles to pick her up and take her to the Salamander Resort in Virginia. Two days later, EPU returned to pick her up from the resort and bring her back to Baltimore.

Another trip the OIG needed clarification from SA Mosby was from August 7, 2019 to August 9, 2019 in Bloomington, Minnesota. According to the letter inviting her to the event, SA Mosby was scheduled to speak at the A. Philip Randolph Institute’s (APRI) National Education Conference for 15-20 minutes, and had the opportunity to participate in other sessions and workshops. SA Mosby was joined on the trip by her spouse, who also spoke at the event, and their children. SA Mosby told the OIG that initially she and her spouse were not going to attend the conference because the event occurred at the same time as her child’s birthday. SA Mosby said that APRI offered to pay for her children to attend the conference because it was partly focused on youth. The total cost of airfare, hotel and meals for SA Mosby and her family was $1,672.40. All expenses were paid for by APRI.

Independent from the materials received from SA Mosby, the OIG contacted all sponsoring organizations for SA Mosby’s 24 trips and received documentation to substantiate the expenses for 23 of them. According to this documentation, sponsoring organizations paid $23,693 in upfront costs and direct reimbursements to SA Mosby for 19 of the 23 trips, and the BCSAO paid $3,322.65 in full or partial costs for six of the 24 trips, including one $55 direct reimbursement by the City to SA Mosby. As of the date of this report, one sponsoring organization, the Harvard Women’s Law Association, did not respond to numerous OIG requests for financial records related to SA Mosby’s October 2018 trip. Accordingly, the OIG was unable to independently verify the costs of this trip, which SA Mosby reported as $500.52 in gifted travel expenses.

Table 1 summarizes the travel costs for all sponsored trips taken by SA Mosby in 2018 and 2019, as compiled by the OIG from the records and other documentation received directly from the sponsoring agencies.

B. Discrepancies in Costs for SA Mosby's Sponsored Trips

The OIG's investigation revealed slight discrepancies between the sponsored trip expenses reported by SA Mosby in her 2018 and 2019 State financial disclosures, those in the updated travel list provided by SA Mosby's counsel to the OIG, and those in the independent OIG verification. Table 2 summarizes these discrepancies.

Table 2: Summary of Total Cost of Sponsored Travel by Source

Calendar Year	Total Cost from State Financial Disclosure (23 trips)	Total Cost from Travel List Provided to OIG (excluding amounts reported as not reimbursed) (24 trips)	Total Cost from Documents Obtained by the OIG from Sponsoring Organizations/City ¹³ (24 trips)
2018	$3,449.33	$3,290.05	$3,420.96
2019	$24,362.66	$24,248.48	$23,594.69
Grand Total	$27,811.99	$27,538.53	$27,015.65

On her financial disclosures, SA Mosby reported 23 sponsored trips during 2018 and 2019 at a cost of $27,811.99. In the travel list provided to the OIG, SA Mosby reported 24 sponsored trips during 2018 and 2019 at a cost of $27,538.53. In other words, SA Mosby added a sponsored trip on the travel list, but the overall cost of the trips decreased by $273.46.

This discrepancy results from various corrections made in the travel list to the amounts listed in the financial disclosures. The amounts in the travel list reflect the subtraction of expenses for which SA Mosby claims she had not actually been reimbursed. In sum, the cost for nine trips reported in the State financial disclosures were changed in the travel list provided to the OIG (Exhibit 6).

¹² This table includes one trip in October 2018 for which responsive records for costs were not provided by the sponsoring organization, the Harvard Women's Law Association (HWLA). The table includes the $500.52 cost of the trip reported by SA Mosby.

¹³ The total cost for 2018 in this column reflects the unverified $500.52 reported cost of SA Mosby's HWLA trip.

C. City Policy for Official Business Trips

In accordance with SA Mosby's request for the OIG to conduct a full investigation into her travel, the OIG investigated whether SA Mosby's official business travel complied with the City and BCSAO's rules and regulations. The OIG's investigation found that the out-of-town trips did not comply with the relevant travel policies and procedures.

According to the City's Administrative Manual¹⁴ (AM) and internal BCSAO policy (Exhibit 7), travel must be submitted for approval to either the agency head or the Board of Estimates (BOE), depending on conditions such as the cost of the trip, length of absence, and location of travel; the source or type of funds used to pay for the travel has no bearing on the level of approval required. An agency head can approve travel and related costs up to $800. However, travel that costs more than $800, as well as any travel outside of the continental United States regardless of source of funds or cost of trip, must be approved by the BOE.¹⁵ Additionally, BOE approval is required if the official's absence exceeds five workdays or involves one or both weekend days. The process of submitting travel requests in advance to the BOE is to ensure accountability and transparency.

The OIG found that SA Mosby did not request BOE approval for any of her 24 trips. However, at least 15 of those trips required advance BOE approval under BCSAO/City policy. Eleven of the trips cost more than $800, including three trips to four countries outside of the continental United States. Additionally, four of the trips cost less than $800, but included travel on a weekend day.

The investigation revealed that SA Mosby had sought and received approval from the BOE for other out-of-town travel prior to 2018. On at least three separate occasions from 2015 to 2017, SA Mosby submitted out-of-town travel requests to the BOE. Each of the three requests indicated that City general funds were used to cover the cost of the trip and two of the three indicate a City-issued credit card assigned to the BCSAO Community Outreach Supervisor was used to pre-pay travel costs. The OIG found at least one trip in 2019 cost the City more than $800 and was paid for using the credit card assigned to the Community Outreach Supervisor; however, the trip was not submitted to the BOE.¹⁶

D. SA Mosby's Tax Write-Offs for Travel Expenses

As part of its full investigation into SA Mosby's travel, the OIG reviewed the Employee Business Expenses form (Form 2106) of SA Mosby's 2019 federal tax return, which she provided to the OIG. SA Mosby claimed $2,714 in travel expenses away from home (not including meals); $3,428 in business expenses (not including travel or meals); and $1,781 in meal expenses, for a

¹⁴ Baltimore City Administrative Manual, AM 240-1

¹⁵ Baltimore City Administrative Manual, AM 240-3

¹⁶ The OIG noted that in a few recent BOE agendas in 2021, the BCSAO has been submitting retroactive travel requests for some of its employees. These travel requests appear to have been for BCSAO employee travel that took place nearly two years ago. However, none of the retroactive requests appear to be for SA Mosby's trips.

total amount of $7,923. Each of the three categories of expenses were reported as out-of-pocket costs SA Mosby personally incurred related to her job as State's Attorney. The OIG requested the transactions comprising the $7,923 in expenses reported on SA Moby's Form 2106 to confirm she had not deducted travel expenses for which she was reimbursed. SA Mosby's counsel agreed to provide documentation for $2,714 in travel expenses and $1,781 in meal expenses, but would not provide documentation for the remaining $3,428 in business expenses.¹⁷

SA Mosby's counsel provided 134 transactions included in redacted bank and credit card statements totaling $5,904.13 that they said comprised the $4,495 of combined travel and meal expenses for which SA Mosby was not reimbursed. However, the amount of expenses provided was $1,409.13 more than what she claimed for travel and meals. Despite numerous requests by the OIG for clarification on exactly which transactions provided were included on her tax return, no additional detail or information was ever provided. According to her counsel's October 26, 2020 letter, SA Mosby had, "received merely $642.64 in direct reimbursements from various organizations for out-of-pocket expenses plus an additional $1,192 per diem," but had not been reimbursed for $2,714 in travel expenses and $1,781 in meal expenses, a total of $4,495. The OIG review found SA Mosby was reimbursed for $584.73 worth of expenses that were included with those transactions provided by her counsel; however, because no additional detail was provided, the OIG could not definitively ascertain which expenses SA Mosby had reported on Form 2106.

E. Other Travel

As part of its "full investigation into [SA Mosby's] travel and financial disclosures," the OIG investigated SA Mosby's travel in total, including travel that was not on SA Mosby's financial disclosures or on the travel list provided to the OIG. In addition to the sponsored trips discussed above, the OIG found that SA Mosby traveled out of town on an additional 59 workdays during 2018 and 2019 (Exhibit 8).

According to the Baltimore City Department of Human Resources, there are no formal policies or rules governing time, attendance, or leave for elected officials in Baltimore City. SA Mosby's timecard from 2018 through 2020 indicates that she has a workday of 8:30am to 4:30pm, including all holidays.

Gifts Other than Travel

SA Mosby reported on her State financial disclosures that she received 41 gifts other than travel-related expenses during 2018 and 2019.¹⁸ In 2018, SA Mosby reported having received 33 gifts from organizations and individuals; however, she reported the value for only 5 of the 33 gifts, which totaled $1,111.02. The value of the remaining 28 gifts was listed as either "unknown"

¹⁷ SA Mosby's counsel said the remaining $3,428 in business expenses "falls well beyond the scope of [the OIG] investigation, we do not perceive the need to provide you with additional proof of her tax deductions unrelated to travel."

or left blank. In 2019, SA Mosby reported having received eight gifts from different organizations and individuals, with a total value of $424.45.

According to emails by SA Mosby, “[t]he majority of gifts the State’s Attorney has received and reported are donated to the BCSAO auction during our Winter Solstice celebration, where we raise money for victims of crime.” The BCSAO has organized a Winter Solstice event around December of each year SA Mosby has been in office. The OIG requested from SA Mosby and the BCSAO all documentation to substantiate the reported gifts had been auctioned during these events; however, no such documentation was provided. Instead, the OIG was provided with a list containing two gifts SA Mosby received in 2018 that she said were donated to “Crime Control and Prevention Youth” and five other gifts received between 2018 and 2019 indicated as being “[s]lated to be auctioned in BCSAO Solstice Event Benefit for victims of crime” (Exhibit 9).

After asking for clarification as to whether any gifts had actually been donated and auctioned, SA Mosby’s counsel informed the OIG in a September 29, 2020 letter that SA Mosby had returned two of the gifts, a CBD set and a candle holder, to the organizations that had gifted them to her. The OIG obtained a list of all items that were reportedly donated for the Winter Solstice auctions in 2018 and 2019. SA Mosby is not listed as a donor and nothing on either auction donation list matches any gift listed on SA Mosby’s 2018 and 2019 State financial disclosures. The OIG found no evidence that any of the gifts she has received had been donated and auctioned at a past Winter Solstice event.

Upon seeking additional records related to gifts where no value was reported, SA Mosby’s counsel responded that she had over-reported her gifts and claimed that one of the gifts was a birthday gift from a childhood friend of her spouse. The OIG was not provided with any documentation or further explanation for the gifts whose value had not been reported.

SA Mosby’s Businesses

On May 29, 2019, SA Mosby registered three business entities under her name with the State of Maryland: Mahogany Elite Enterprises, LLC; Mahogany Elite Travel; and Mahogany Elite Consulting. On the filing documents, SA Mosby states that Mahogany Elite Enterprises is a holding company for multiple businesses, Mahogany Elite Travel offers traveling hospitality services, and Mahogany Elite Consulting is a consulting and legal services business.¹⁹ SA Mosby told the OIG that her companies have no clients and have not generated any revenue since she registered them. She also told the OIG that she set up the companies “to help underserved black families who don’t usually have the opportunity to travel outside of urban cities, so they can vacation at various destinations throughout the world at affordable rates.”

SA Mosby did not report her ownership of these companies on her initial 2019 State financial disclosure form. SA Mosby’s told the OIG that her initial 2019 disclosure was filed by a former chief of staff on January 30, 2020, after SA Mosby reviewed it. The OIG interviewed this former chief of staff; she informed the OIG that she had no knowledge of the companies and that she never heard SA Mosby mention them. SA Mosby told the OIG that the chief of staff left City employment shortly after she submitted the disclosure on January 30, 2020. SA Mosby said that approximately five months later, she was alerted that media had reviewed her 2019 disclosure form, which prompted her to review it and realize that her businesses had been left off. According to SA Mosby, upon realizing she did not disclose her businesses, she asked another BCSAO employee to submit an amended disclosure on her behalf to include Mahogany Elite, which was submitted on July 2, 2020.

The investigation found no evidence of revenue or income related to SA Mosby's companies since their inception. Although a redacted copy of Schedule C of SA Mosby's 2019 personal tax return confirmed that the companies had not generated any revenue, it does report that the business incurred $5,000 in expenses in 2019. According to Schedule C of SA Mosby's 2019 federal tax return, she claimed $5,000 in expenses directly related to Mahogany Elite, which consisted of $3,795 for business travel and $1,205 for legal and professional services. Moreover, SA Mosby answered "Yes" on Line G of Schedule C to indicate that she "materially participate[d] in the operation of this business during 2019."²⁰

The OIG reviewed the redacted bank and credit card records provided by SA Mosby which she claimed detailed these business expenses. Her records indicate that she spent $7,651.27 directly related to her companies.²¹ SA Mosby provided a list of 25 transactions which included airlines tickets, rental cars and meals at various restaurants outside of Maryland. Despite numerous requests by the OIG for clarification on exactly which transactions provided were included in her $5,000 reported business loss, no additional detail or information was ever provided.

Two of the purchases expensed to her business were airfare for SA Mosby and her spouse to fly from San Jose, California to Tampa, Florida. As background to this travel expense, SA Mosby explained to the OIG that she and her spouse had flown from Baltimore to Minneapolis on July 21, 2019 to participate in a conference sponsored by the United Steelworkers (USW). According to records, the USW paid for SA Mosby and her spouse's flight, and covered the cost of hotel and meals. Then, after the USW conference ended on July 24, 2019, the USW paid for SA Mosby and her spouse to fly to San Jose instead of returning to Baltimore. SA Mosby attended a meeting hosted by the Association of Prosecuting Attorneys (APA) in San Jose. BCSAO records indicate that the BCSAO/City paid for SA Mosby's hotel. SA Mosby and her spouse were there from July 24th to July 26th, 2019.²² At the end of the APA meeting on July 26th, SA Mosby and her spouse then flew from San Jose to Tampa. SA Mosby included both her and her spouse's airfare to Tampa in the list of expenses she claimed comprised her Mahogany Elite deductions on

²¹ According to SA Mosby's counsel, she only reported $5,000 of this amount because it was believed $5,000 was the legal maximum amount of business expenses she could deduct.

²² The trip to San Jose, CA was one of the 24 official trips reviewed by the OIG.

Mahogany Elite deductions on Schedule C. SA Mosby also told the OIG her businesses have no employees, contractors, or clients.

Conclusion

SA Mosby's broad request for an OIG investigation encompassed the travel and gifts she had reported on her 2018 and 2019 State financial disclosure forms, as well as other travel during that period. The investigation request also encompassed SA Mosby's businesses. With regard to travel, the investigation found that between 2018 and 2019, SA Mosby traveled out-of-town in her official capacity to attend 24 events and was physically absent from Baltimore City for 85 days. Those trips took SA Mosby around the United States, and on three different occasions, around the world. The majority of the trips were not paid for using taxpayer dollars. Nearly $23,700 of the $27,015 total cost of these trips was paid for by sponsoring organizations. Six of the 24 trips were paid for in full or in part by the BCSAO/City. The OIG found discrepancies between the travel reported on SA Mosby's State financial disclosure forms, the travel list she provided to the OIG, and the OIG's independent verification of costs. Amounts and details vary between these two sources, as well as between these sources and the OIG's independent verification of costs. The OIG's independent verification determined that the total cost of SA Mosby's sponsored trips taken in 2018 and 2019 were $796.34 less than the amount she had reported on her State financial disclosures.

According to the City's AM and internal BCSAO policy, when certain travel conditions are met, elected officials must submit travel requests to the BOE for approval. The investigation revealed that at least 15 of the 24 sponsored trips reported by SA Mosby met such conditions but none appear to have been submitted to the BOE for approval.

With regard to gifts other than travel, SA Mosby listed a number of gifts on her 2018 and 2019 financial disclosure forms; many of those listed on the 2018 form do not provide a value. SA Mosby's spokesperson publicly stated that any gifts she received in 2018 and 2019 had been donated to the BCSAO Winter Solstice auction. However, the OIG found no evidence indicating that SA Mosby had donated a single gift to any past auctions.

Turning to SA Mosby's companies, although it appears the companies did not generate any revenue in 2019, they do appear to have been active, incurring $7,650 in expenses that year. These expenses included airline tickets and travel for SA Mosby and others. Additionally, according to her tax filing, SA Mosby reported a business loss of $5,000, and indicated she had "materially participate[d]" in the operation of Mahogany Elite in 2019.

Finally, it is not within the purview of the OIG to make a determination as to whether SA Mosby fully complied with the State Public Ethics Law, including the State's disclosure requirements. The OIG will defer any such finding to the Maryland State Ethics Commission.

SA Mosby's request for OIG investigation

July 20, 2020

Isabel Mercedes Cumming
Inspector General of Baltimore City
Office of the Inspector General
City Hall, Room 635
100 North Holliday Street
Baltimore, Maryland 21202

Dear Inspector General Cummings:

I am writing to request that you open a full investigation into my travel and financial disclosures to determine if there has been any ethical or legal wrongdoing on my part as the elected State's Attorney for Baltimore City.

As you may be aware, the Baltimore Brew published an article last week on my travels and financial disclosures while I have been in office. The article presents a misleading picture of my finances and travel to readers. The initial headline accused me of "pocketing $30,000 in travel reimbursements."¹ After my office contacted the publication, they changed the headline four hours later to "accepting $30,000 in travel reimbursements." Neither of those statements is true. I have been reimbursed directly for certain out-of-pocket travel-related expenses such as meals, but that figure of approximately $3000 is far short of the $30,000 the Baltimore Brew accuses me of "pocketing." The $3000 reimbursement is also legal.

Approximately 90 percent of the travel and accommodation has been paid for directly by organizations and not the taxpayers of this city. As State's Attorney, I have been asked to speak hundreds of times at conventions, universities, and corporations and have never accepted an honorarium or monetary compensation.

The reality is that I have always been transparent and fully disclosed all information in accordance with my ethical obligations. Indeed, the only reason the Baltimore Brew was able to write a story is because I identified and published the costs associated with every trip I have gone on, every hotel I have stayed in, every gift I have received – complete with dollar amounts. I have never sought to hide my travel or the lessons learned from it, publishing this information in our office's annual report, in op-eds, discussing it before the state legislature, and in press interviews. Since the start of my administration, I've been fully transparent with my ethics obligations. In a 2015 article the Baltimore Sun, noted that "Jennifer Bevan-Dangel of the watchdog group Common Cause Maryland said Mosby appeared to be going above and beyond what was necessary in disclosing the trips."²

The misleading and erroneous statements in the Baltimore Brew article and subsequent Fox 45 stories have caused a lot of confusion for the general public. I have read messages from members of the public telling me to give the money back, or to stop using taxpayers' money. As you will see, these messages represent a profound misunderstanding of who pays for the travel and what money I received. Again, I have never accepted any honorarium for my involvement or speeches and the $30,000 referenced is the accumulation of the airfare and hotel costs – covered by other organizations - which I calculated and disclosed on my ethics forms for the public.

I also encourage you to contact any of the entities that organized my travel to verify what is in my ethics forms. As far as I am aware, the Baltimore Brew contacted all of the organizations I listed and they all affirmed that they paid for my travel and accommodations directly, without me “pocketing” a penny. Miriam Krinsky, Executive Director of Fair and Just Prosecutions (FJP) told the Baltimore Brew – in a statement they did not publish in its entirety - that “All travel (including hotel, food and transportation/airfare) associated with these convenings is paid for by FJP to ensure elected prosecutors across the country have the ability to access the best evidence, knowledge and new thinking to advance reforms aimed at promoting stronger, healthier and safer communities. No compensation is provided to the elected prosecutors who have the opportunity to attend our gatherings.”

The article also mentions companies that I created. As I told the Baltimore Brew, the idea was to set up a travel company to help underserved black families who don't usually have the opportunity to travel outside of urban cities, so they can vacation at various destinations throughout the world at affordable rates. I ask that you verify that I have not taken on a single client for these companies, nor have I taken in any money. Any insinuation to the contrary is false, misleading, and unethical.

I am confident that I have always abided by the ethical rules and regulations and have been fully transparent about any gifts, travel, or other financial activity. I am therefore asking you – an independent authority – to investigate my financial disclosures and travel. I am willing to share with you any and all documentation you request, including bank account statements, credit card statements, and inner-office financial ledgers. The people of Baltimore have endured far too many corruption scandals and need to know what is and is not illegal.

Sincerely,

Re: Inspector General's August 13, 2020 Request for Documents to State's Attorney Marilyn J. Mosby

Dear Ms. Cumming:

As you are aware Andy Graham and I represent Ms. Mosby. As you know, on July 20, 2020, to demonstrate the inaccuracy of reports by certain media outlets and to put the matter to rest, Ms. Mosby requested that your office investigate whether she did anything inappropriate by attending certain work-related trips, whether she received improper expense reimbursements relating to her work-related travel, and whether her businesses were involved in or benefited from such work-related travel. Because Ms. Mosby is confident she did nothing inappropriate, Ms. Mosby remains committed to cooperating voluntarily with you in this matter. As you know, she is likewise cooperating fully with the Maryland State Ethics Commission. I am confident that your office will conclude that Ms. Mosby's handling of travel expenses has been completely above board.

Below are Ms. Mosby's responses to the numbered document requests set forth in your August 13, 2020 letter. Given the sensitive nature of some of the information within the materials on the thumb-drive produced with this letter, the materials are tendered with the understanding that they will be kept confidential by your office. In the same regard, in certain instances as you will see, information within the accompanying materials that is not responsive or is beyond the scope of the investigation has been redacted.

REQUEST NO. 7. All state and federal tax returns for any business owned and/or operated by you for tax years 2018 and 2019.

REQUEST NO. 8. Any and all personal and/or business bank statements related to expenses incurred during the dates of travel for any trips, conferences, seminars — or related activities — from January 1, 2018 to present. Please note that any extraneous transactions on the bank statements can be redacted.

RESPONSE: Ms. Mosby established her businesses in 2019 and did not claim work-related travel expenses in 2018. Therefore, 2018 personal and/or business bank statements are not relevant to the subject inquiry. Ms. Mosby's businesses have not yet established any bank accounts. This request is construed to cover work-related trips for which reimbursement of expenses was sought, received or claimed and not to cover personal or family trips. Please see accompanying personal bank statements related to the expenses incurred during the dates of work-related travel in 2019. Although not specifically requested, in the interest of transparency Ms. Mosby has also included credit card statements.

REQUEST NO. 9. Any memoranda and/or official reports completed by you related to trips taken, conferences and seminars attended, or related activities from January 1, 2018 to present.

RESPONSE: This request is construed to cover work-related trips for which reimbursement of expenses was sought, received or claimed and not to cover personal or family trips. Please see the accompanying materials responsive to this request.

REQUEST NO. 10. A list of all gifts received by you since 2018 which were subsequently auctioned off, including but not limited to: description of gift(s) auctioned off; date of auction; location of auction; name and contact information of person(s) and/or organization(s) that administered the auction; name and contact information of the winning bidder; amount of the winning bid; person(s) responsible for collecting the auction proceeds; and the bank information for where the proceeds were deposited.

RESPONSE: Please see the accompanying record of all unsolicited gifts received since 2018 that Ms. Mosby subsequently donated and/or are set to be auctioned. Such gifts were properly disclosed on Ms. Mosby's State Ethics forms. The essential oils and diffuser, the Korres body butter, hair care oils, perfume, the mini candles and the Cura Cannabis CBD Solutions products from 2019 are still sitting in the State's Attorney's office in the original gift bags unused and are slated to be auction in the Baltimore City State's Attorney's Office Winter Solstice event to benefit the Emergency Fund for the victims and witnesses of crime.

Although your letter does not specifically request it, to provide additional context for the foregoing, I thought it would be helpful to share some additional information. As you will see from the production, in 2018 Ms. Mosby attended six work-related trips, the expenses (e.g., flights and hotels) of which were paid directly by the organization(s) that solicited Ms. Mosby's participation. Thus, in 2018, taxpayer funds were not used for Ms. Mosby's travel and she was not reimbursed for any work-related travel expenses.

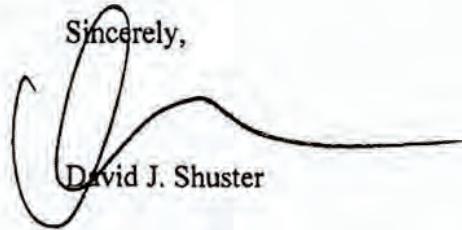

In 2019, Ms. Mosby attended 16 work-related trips. With the exception of a total of $1,230.66 that was paid by her office, most of the accommodations (flights and hotels) for these trips were paid directly by the organization(s) that solicited her participation. As is reflected in the attached organizational receipts and correspondence, Ms. Mosby was not compensated for attending those events. In fact, she was reimbursed $1,601.14 for out-of-pocket travel-related expenses for all of 2019. Indeed, on a handful of occasions, Ms. Mosby actually over-reported reimbursements on her ethics forms. In other words, she erroneously reported instances where she was entitled to be reimbursed but never actually received the reimbursements.

Moreover, Ms. Mosby has complied with the reporting requirements of the State Ethics Commission. In fact, she filed her initial State Ethics Disclosures five months before the extended June 5th deadline. On July 2, only 19 business days after the State disclosures were due, she amended her financial disclosures to ensure she accounted for the three non-operational businesses that were established in 2019.

Inspector General of Baltimore City

Ms. Mosby looks forward to your report. In the meantime, please contact me if you have any questions about the foregoing.

Re: Inspector General's Investigation of
Baltimore City State's Attorney Marilyn J. Mosby

Dear Ms. Cumming:

As you are aware, we represent Ms. Mosby. As you know, on July 20, 2020, to demonstrate the inaccuracy of reports by certain media outlets and to put the matter to rest, Ms. Mosby requested that your office investigate whether she did anything inappropriate by attending certain work-related trips, whether she received improper expense reimbursements relating to her work-related travel, and whether her businesses were involved in or benefited from such work-related travel.

Ms. Mosby is confident she did nothing inappropriate. She has fully cooperated during your investigation, devoting considerable time and energy to responding swiftly to your requests for large volumes of information covering several years. Your requests came with deadlines, and Ms. Mosby's turnaround time was impressive, particularly considering the scope of her responsibilities as State's Attorney for Baltimore City (not to mention her personal responsibilities as a mother of young children). Running a major metropolitan prosecutors' office (with 217 prosecutors and staff handling more than 30,000 criminal investigations and prosecutions) is incredibly time-consuming. Nevertheless, without being subpoenaed or ordered to do so, Ms. Mosby devoted considerable time and energy to responding promptly and in painstaking detail to your requests for large volumes of personal and work-related information covering several years.

Again, thank you for your willingness to accommodate our professional schedules by giving us a few extra days to respond to your requests for information. We were not trying to slow down the process, and we hope you can appreciate our firm's role and professional obligations whenever we represent a person being asked to produce large volumes of information in connection with an investigation. In that process, we worked very hard and quickly to coordinate with you to get you all of the information you need to reach an objective conclusion based on considerable evidence.

In addition to the materials accompanying this letter, Ms. Mosby has produced an enormous amount of information in response to your many requests, including:

- A listing of dates, locations, and event names of any and all work-related trips taken by Ms. Mosby;
- The direct contact information for every organization that coordinated Ms. Mosby's travel;

Work-Related Travel and Travel Reimbursements. Ms. Mosby did nothing improper in connection with her job-related travel, and the information that Ms. Mosby has provided confirms that fact. She was not compensated and did not receive any honoraria in connection with the professional or industry events that she attended. The documents demonstrate that travel expenses for such trips were paid directly by the organizations that requested her appearance. Contrary to some baseless media reports, Ms. Mosby was not paid $30,000 in reimbursements; in actuality, she received merely $1,601.14 from various organizations in order to reimburse her for out-of-pocket expenses that Ms. Mosby incurred in connection with those trips. Putting aside the truly nominal amount, there is nothing improper with these reimbursements. Moreover, in the course of 24 months, a grand total of $1,377.95 of City funds were spent in connection with Ms. Mosby's work travel — a nominal sum that pales in comparison to the expenses the City has paid for work-related travel of other City employees.

Ms. Mosby disclosed all such travel (indeed, she over-reported in certain instances because disclosure is not required in connection with entities that do not do business in Maryland).

Ms. Mosby's Private Business. Ms. Mosby violated no legal or ethical rules in connection with her personal business, and the documents she produced confirms that fact.

The business has nothing to do with her responsibilities as State's Attorney or with the Office of State's Attorney for Baltimore City. As you know, the business is newly formed and has not yet earned any revenues. Ms. Mosby has never used her Office to promote the business and the relatively nominal amount of expenses incurred and deducted on her tax returns to start up the business have nothing to do with her work-related travel. Indeed, although Ms. Mosby's tax returns were prepared with the advice of a professional tax advisor and although there has never been a question about anything being out of order in her taxes, Ms. Mosby's tax reporting has nothing to do with public funds and is clearly beyond the scope of your investigation. Nevertheless, again going above and beyond to cooperate with your office, with this letter Ms. Mosby has provided proof of the expenses she incurred for the business. See accompanying copies of credit card statements and bank statements showing expenses that comprise the tax deduction for her business expenses. As you can see, the City did not fund those expenses and they were incurred by her and are not gifts made to her.

Gifts. Ms. Mosby did nothing inappropriate with gifts she received, and the information that Ms. Mosby has provided confirms that fact. Ms. Mosby complied with all public disclosure requirements in connection with every gift that she has ever received. In fact, she actually over-reported (i.e., was not required to disclose, but did disclose) personal gifts (e.g., a bracelet that she received for her birthday from her husband's childhood friend). Exemplifying Ms. Mosby's commitment to those that she serves, on her own initiative, she elected to set aside several non-ceremonial gifts (e.g., essential oils, hair care system, body butter, CBD set, and a candle with a votive holder) to be auctioned off for the benefit of victims and witnesses of crime in Baltimore City. These items, which are of nominal value, were set aside in her Chief of Staff's Office in their original packaging; however, Ms. Mosby has returned two of the gifts (CBD set and the candle with a votive holder) to the organizations that gave them to her. Accompanying this letter is proof of the returns. The remaining gifts continue to be slated for the victim and witness auction.

In addition, we want to address a concern you expressed during our discussions. You mentioned that you were concerned that Ms. Mosby's request for an investigation by your office was somehow an attempt by her to "use you" in some way and that your professional reputation might somehow be implicated. We want to assure you that Ms. Mosby's request for an investigation is entirely appropriate. As we are sure you can appreciate, when the baseless news reports came out, Ms. Mosby was eager to demonstrate that she did nothing wrong. Leveling baseless allegations accusing an elected prosecutor of misusing public funds is a serious matter that, however reckless and inaccurate, can undermine public trust. For that reason, Ms. Mosby invited your office to investigate those allegations. Moreover, we do not know why you believe your professional reputation will be impaired or undermined by a conclusion favorable to Ms. Mosby. In any event, any concern that a favorable conclusion by your office may cause others to perceive you as having gone easy on Ms. Mosby or as having shaded things in her favor should not be a factor. Rather, we hope that the only considerations that matter here are the law and facts. And, based on the law and facts, we request that your report state that Ms. Mosby has fully cooperated and that your investigation has concluded she did nothing inappropriate.

In the event your report is not a full exoneration of Ms. Mosby in view of the fact that the reckless media reports were false, we request, in the interests of fairness to Ms. Mosby, that you make this letter an exhibit to your report. Ms. Mosby looks forward to your report. In the meantime, please contact us if you have any questions about the foregoing.

Sincerely,

Andrew Jay Graham

Dear Mr. Shuster & Mr. Graham:

I am in receipt of your September 29, 2020 letter sent in response to the September 11, 2020 Office of the Inspector General (OIG) letter requesting certain records. I want to address the concerns outlined in the second to last paragraph of your letter. First, your understanding of our conversation regarding "using" the OIG for an investigation is incorrect. To be clear, as in every case, the OIG is committed to complete and transparent investigations. Second, suggesting that I believe any conclusion by the OIG favorable to your client would impair the reputation of the OIG is false. The OIG remains steadfast in its core principle: to pursue the truth with an objective mind, without prejudice, and regardless of politics.

In the July 30, 2020 letter sent directly to [REDACTED] Fiscal Officer for the Baltimore City State's Attorney's Office, the OIG requested copies of all supporting documentation submitted by your client to the City of Baltimore for any reimbursements. [REDACTED] wrote to the OIG that she provided the requested documents to your office, not the OIG. Only one of the three reimbursement checks included in your office's August 19, 2020 document production contained receipts and a corresponding expense report. The OIG again requested on September 11, 2020 the receipts and expense reports for the other two reimbursement checks directly from your office and, that if no other expense reports were filed, to indicate as much. On September 29, 2020, documentation for one of the two outstanding expense reports was provided. We cannot find a copy of the third. Please advise if it does not exist.

In addition, the OIG requested on September 11, 2020 any receipts and other documentation to substantiate the expenses claimed by your client on Schedule C and Form 2106 of her 2019 federal tax return. Your office produced heavily redacted bank statements and credit cards statements with no delineation for which expenses are related to Schedule C and which are related to Form 2106 (Note: it was your client who wrote to the OIG on July 20, 2020, "I am willing to share with you any and all documentation you request, including bank account statements, credit card statements, and inner-office financial ledgers"). Moreover, the OIG requested on September 11, 2020 clear and legible copies of the tax forms, bank statements and credit card statements produced by your client; this request was not fulfilled. Please advise if expenses will be delineated and if legible copies of financial documents will be provided.

REPORT FRAUD, WASTE AND ABUSE

HOTLINE: 443-984-3476/800-417-0430 EMAIL: OIG@BALTIMORECITY.GOV WEBSITE: OIG.BALTIMORECITY.GOV

Our review determined that the records your client has produced to date indicate that none of the gifts she received were donated to the Baltimore City State's Attorney's Office Winter Solstice auction. Your August 19, 2020 document production states that five of the of gifts received since 2018 are "slated" to be sold at an upcoming auction. Please advise if that is a correct interpretation of the information provided to this office.

When Mr. Graham and I last spoke on September 18, 2020, he indicated that the Maryland State Ethics Commission had concluded your client acted appropriately. The OIG requests from you a copy of the report the State Ethics Commission provided to you or your client showing it reached the conclusion Mr. Graham mentioned.

Again, in order to avoid future issues with misinterpreting conversations, all future correspondence concerning this investigation will be in writing. Please respond to the OIG regarding the missing items outlined above by October 20, 2020.

Sincerely,

RE: Inspector General's Investigation of
Baltimore City State's Attorney Marilyn J. Mosby

Dear Ms. Cumming:

This responds to the requests for clarification outlined in your October 5, 2020 letter. As you noted in your October 5 letter, our client wrote to you requesting this investigation. She did so with the understanding that your Office would adhere to its core principle, as you have described it, "to pursue the truth with an objective mind, without prejudice, and regardless of politics." That is why we thought it prudent to address the concerns you previously raised about your reputation. Thank you for clarifying your prior comments and for reaffirming your commitment as Inspector General to a fair, impartial, and transparent investigation without bias or politics. It appears we now have a mutual understanding of our respective perspectives on this point.

The truth remains that our client has done nothing wrong and has fully and voluntarily cooperated with you throughout the course of this self-initiated investigation, providing you with a vast array of personal information that, candidly, is not relevant to the scope of your investigation. We are confused as to why you seem to be concerned that our client redacted her bank and credit card statements with respect to information that is unresponsive to your requests. I think we can all agree that Ms. Mosby's spending habits related to, for example, childcare, personal purchases, or medical expenses are not relevant to your investigation into her work-related travel.

Re: Expense Reimbursements

In response to the question in the second paragraph of the first page of your October 5 letter, as you are aware, Ms. Mosby has received only three direct reimbursements from the City of Baltimore in the past three years, totaling $172.14. One was for $55 for a baggage fee that she submitted on July 23, 2019 (this receipt was provided to you on September 29), and she was also reimbursed $84.69 on November 12, 2019 for food that she purchased for an office event (this receipt was provided to you on August 19). Despite a comprehensive search by her Fiscal Officer, Wanda Carrington, the expense reimbursement form and receipt for the May 31, 2019 reimbursement to Ms. Mosby in the amount of $32.45 (MOSBY001833) could not be located. Ms. Mosby does not recall this particular charge, although she does not believe it was related to travel. We apologize that documentation for this di minimis charge was not able to be found.

Re: Personal 2019 Taxes

In response to your initial request, Ms. Mosby produced more than 132 pages of redacted bank statements, credit card statements, and tax documents in our August 19 document production. While we agree that the copy quality is not pristine, the information you have received is sufficiently legible because, based on that information, you identified and requested follow-up documents that we have subsequently provided to substantiate our client's expenses. As you can appreciate, it is extremely time consuming and burdensome to have to go through and redact these documents a second time. Although Ms. Mosby does not intend to do that, we are more than willing to print hard copies for you or to go over specific items that you find challenging to read. Please let us know how you would like to proceed.

In response to your questions in the third paragraph of the first page of your October 5 letter, Schedule C of Ms. Mosby's 2019 tax returns (MOSBY002299, included within Ms. Mosby's August 19, 2019 production) relates to the business losses of Mahogany Elite Enterprises, LLC and reflects a total loss of $5,000. As our September 29 letter explained, the bank records and credit card statements produced with that letter (MOSBY002439-77) show the expenses that comprise the Schedule C $5,000 deduction claimed on Ms. Mosby's 2019 taxes. In fact, the records that we have already provided detail approximately $7,650 in business expenses; however, $5,000 was the maximum deduction she could legally take on Schedule C, which explains why Schedule C reflects the $5,000 deduction. Even though these itemized expense deductions go well beyond the scope of your investigation and authority, Ms. Mosby provided proof of these deductions so that you could see that these expenses were not gifted to her businesses by any outside organization or agencies.

In response to your request concerning the delineation of expenses on Form 2106 — Employee Business Expenses (MOSBY002305), the expenses relating to her work-related travel (lines 3 and 5 of Form 2106) have already been provided to you in our August 19 document production. As you are aware from the master spreadsheet outlining every 2019 reimbursement that she received to date, Ms. Mosby received merely $642.64 in direct reimbursements from various organizations for out-of-pocket expenses plus an additional $1,192 in per diem. The bank statements and credit card statements that she provided to you on August 19 outline more than $6,700. That figure accounts for the $2,714 in travel expenses (not including meals) and the $1,781 (in meals), as is reflected on Form 2106 of her 2019 taxes. Clearly, Ms. Mosby's travel expenses far exceed the amount she was actually reimbursed ($642.64). Hence, there can be no dispute that Ms. Mosby did nothing inappropriate concerning her work-related travel reimbursements.

Finally, because an examination of expenses that Ms. Mosby generally incurred unrelated to work-related travel for her job as State's Attorney falls well beyond the scope of your investigation, we do not perceive the need to provide you with additional proof of her tax deductions unrelated to her travel. As noted above, Ms. Mosby has gone above and beyond to comply with your expansive tax requests, which is why she has already provided you proof of relevant deductions made on her taxes.

Re: Gifts

In response to your request for further clarification concerning the small gift items that were donated or slated for auction (see page 2, 1st paragraph of your October 5 letter), I refer you to the chart (Bates-labeled MOSBY002428) included within Ms. Mosby's September 8, 2020 production. That chart clearly identifies the gifts that were "donated" to BCSAO Crime Control & Prevention Youth Programs and families, which is described on the "2018 CCP Inventory of Supplies" list and includes the Univer-Soul Circus Tickets and Two Women Supply Kits (IMPACT magazine gifts). There were an additional five gifts (essential oils, hair care system, body butter, CBD set, and a candle with a votive holder) that were "donated and slated" by Ms. Mosby to be auctioned at the BCSAO's Winter Solstice Event to benefit victims of crime. However, in our September 29 letter, we identified two gifts that were set to be auctioned (i.e., had been slated for the auction), but which have since been returned (in their original package and wrappings) to the organizations that gave them. See MOSBY002429-33, included within Ms. Mosby's September 8, 2020 production.

Re: State Ethics Commission

In response to your request for the Maryland State Ethics Commission's report (see page 2, 2nd paragraph of your October 5 letter), we can confirm that the Maryland State Ethics Commission has recently concluded their audit/investigation and they did not find any improper conduct on Ms. Mosby's part regarding her travel, her gifts, nor her business.

Overall the Commission was very helpful in providing guidance about what is and is not required to be disclosed. As you are aware, any report to be issued by the Commission is confidential. Given the scope of your investigation, we do not see a basis for your request for a copy of the report when it is issued. We understand that the Maryland State Ethics Commission declined to discuss Ms. Mosby with you. Nevertheless, we can inform you that there has been no finding by the Commission of any wrongdoing on Ms. Mosby's part and, indeed, Ms. Mosby was advised that her disclosures were over-inclusive. In other words, Ms. Mosby reported gift items that were not required to be disclosed and, moreover, none of the travel that she identified was required to have been disclosed in the first place.

At this point, we are confident that Ms. Mosby has fully cooperated with all requests for information from your office. Ms. Mosby and her staff have responded to numerous requests for information, and thousands of pages of documents have been produced to you in response to your requests. In addition, we have answered all follow-up questions from your office. If you have any additional questions, we suggest that the most efficient way to address them is in a conference (preferably by Zoom given the pandemic), where Ms. Mosby can be available to provide any additional clarification. Please advise if you wish to do that, and we will be happy to coordinate a mutually convenient date and time.

We reiterate our position that Ms. Mosby did nothing wrong and, therefore, your Office should issue a report with that conclusion. If your report does not reach that conclusion, then we request, in the interests of fairness to Ms. Mosby, that you make all of our written responses (including this letter) exhibits to your report. Ms. Mosby looks forward to your report. In the meantime, please contact us if you have any questions about the foregoing.

Sincerely,

Andrew Jay Graham

Hello David –

In order to complete our evaluation, can you please

1. Provide a printable copy of the document entitled “Mosby002425_MM 2018-2019 FINAL TRAVEL WORKSHEET.” If you can provide the Microsoft Excel version of it, that would be helpful. As you can see the attached version we have is much too small to read.
2. The OIG has conflicting information regarding two trips:
 - a. Mrs. Mosby reported that she did not attend an event in Cambridge, MD from November 8th to 9th, 2018 for the Maryland State’s Attorney’s Association. Mrs. Mosby reported that Michael Schatzow attended in her place. Information obtained by the OIG conflicts with Mrs. Mosby’s reporting of this trip. Please confirm if Mrs. Mosby attended and if she stayed overnight.
 - b. Mrs. Mosby reported that she attended an event in Washington, DC from June 23rd to 24th, 2019, but that she did not stay overnight and instead gave her hotel room to Michael Schatzow. Information obtained by the OIG conflicts with Mrs. Mosby’s reporting of this trip. Please confirm if Mrs. Mosby attended and if she stayed overnight.

Could you please find out this information as quickly as possible. Thank you and have a nice day. Isabel

Isabel Mercedes Cumming
Inspector General of Baltimore City
Office of the Inspector General
City Hall, Room 635
100 North Holliday Street
Baltimore, Maryland 21202

Dear Inspector General Cummings:

I am writing to you in my capacity as Chief Counsel for the Office of the State's Attorney for Baltimore City. I am looking forward to working with you as the point of contact to coordinate investigations between our offices going forward.

As you are aware, the Office of the State's Attorney for Baltimore City, is a law enforcement agency that is comprised of over 217 attorneys and 403 employees overall. We represent the interests of over 600,000 residents and on average prosecute over 30,000 cases a year.

Our office takes seriously our responsibility to break down barriers of distrust among law enforcement and communities in our pursuit of justice for those victimized by crime. Since the inception of her administration, State's Attorney Marilyn Mosby, has made a commitment to openness and transparency in the operations of the State's Attorney Office.

Trust is critical to the functioning of this agency, which is why six months ago, the State's Attorney, reached out to you and requested that your office open an investigation into her work-related travel and financial disclosures following misleading media assertions and allegations of wrongdoing. As the State's Attorney noted in the letter she sent to you in July of 2020 requesting a thorough and speedy investigation, the people of Baltimore have endured far too many scandals and allegations of corruption by too many elected officials in recent history. The people of Baltimore need and deserve to know the truth as it relates to the actions of its political leaders.

Having accepted the State's Attorney's request to investigate her work-related travel and financial disclosures, it is my understanding that the State's Attorney as well as her staff have been fully cooperative with you and have devoted considerable time and energy in responding promptly and in detail to each and every request that you have made, producing an enormous amount of information spanning several years, including but not limited to:

- A listing of dates, locations, and event names of every work-related trip taken by the State's Attorney in the past 3 years;
- The direct contact information for every organization that coordinated the State's Attorney's travel;
- More than 4,000 office e-mails responsive to nearly 200 search terms provided by your office;
- Travel receipts for every work-related trip;
- Every expense report ever submitted for the State's Attorney's work-related travel;
- Office Policies/Annual Reports that highlighted the State's Attorney's work-related travel;

- Work calendars, files, and agency fiscal ledgers pertaining to the State's Attorney's travel;
- A forensic image of the State's Attorney's mobile work phone (you're still in possession of);
- The State's Attorney's personal tax returns for 2019;
- Proof of tax deductions made on the State's Attorney's taxes;
- A year's worth of the State's Attorney's personal bank statements;
- The State's Attorney's personal credit card statements;
- Articles of Organization for the State's Attorney's inoperable businesses;
- A full identification of all gifts received by the State's Attorney since 2018;
- A listing of items (with pictures of the items) that were "slated" or intended to be auctioned to benefit victims of crime;
- Written responses to every one of your requests for clarity and information;
- Offer to interview the State's Attorney via Zoom to provide context and clarity for any outstanding concern (not yet availed);

It's fair to deduce that the State's Attorney has gone above and beyond to voluntarily provide you with what you need to conclude this investigation. The longer your investigation continues without any indication of a resolution in sight, detracts from the important work of our office and erodes the public's confidence in State's Attorney Mosby and our office.

I'm reaching out to you to assess where you are in your investigation and to ascertain when the people of Baltimore can expect a summation of your findings. If there is any information that you desire from our office or from State's Attorney Mosby specifically, please illuminate and enumerate what it is so we can work to get that information to you.

Believing that your investigation would be expeditious, this office has denied several media inquiries, which would have refuted allegations of wrong doing on the part of the State's Attorney months ago. Furthermore, as you're aware, the State's Attorney has been in direct communication with the Maryland State Ethics Commission and was verbally advised following their audit/investigation that the State's Attorney did not engage in any improper conduct regarding her travel, the gifts that she reported and received, nor her business. Is there a timeframe in which we should expect resolution of your investigation?

The State's Attorney's Office and the citizens of this city deserve resolution of this matter so that there are not misconceptions that undermine the trust that our office has worked so hard to build in the very important work that we do on behalf of the people we represent.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

RE: Inspector General's Investigation of
Baltimore City State's Attorney Marilyn J. Mosby

Dear Ms. Cumming:

Per your request, I have attached an enlarged copy of the MM Excel Final Travel worksheet.

As to the "conflicting information" you reference, there is NO conflicting information regarding the trips. As previously explained, Ms. Mosby did not spend the night when she attended the event in Cambridge, MD from November 8th to 9th, 2018 for the Maryland State's Attorneys' Association. My client attended the first day of the MSAA conference but did not spend the night. Michael Schatzow did in fact attend the remainder of the conference to represent the office.

As to the second trip, as previously reported, Mrs. Mosby attended the event in Washington, DC from June 23rd to 24th, 2019, but she did not stay overnight and instead gave her hotel room to Michael Schatzow. Again, my client attended this law enforcement partnership event during the day and commuted home both days.

In summation, there is NO conflicting information regarding her travel. This is the same information that we provided to you months ago. We also offered to make ourselves available via Zoom or otherwise to go over any questions or concerns that you may have had.

We initiated this investigation to provide complete transparency to the public consistent with the trust that we've built with the community and counter to the baseless media assertions of wrongdoing. We look forward to you concluding your investigation.

Sincerely,

Andrew Jay Graham

Dear Mr. Graham,—

Thank you for your letter. As to the November 8th meeting in Cambridge, the attachment you just sent clearly states —

“SA Mosby did not attend, Deputy Schatzow attended in her absence”.

However in the letter you just sent, you state she did attend but not spend the night. Rather she gave the room to her Deputy. Our conflicting information was the fact of whether she attended the event based on your chart and the information we had gathered.

As far as the second conflict, the concern is that the City paid for two rooms (room 0627 and room 0841) at the Ritz Carlton for the Washington DC event on June 23. Deputy Schatzow already had his own room (room 0841) and was positive he checked in under his name. Your chart information was -

“SA Mosby did not stay overnight for this event, she did attend the event but Deputy Schatzow utilized the hotel.”

The OIG just wanted to verify that she choose not to spend the evening at the Ritz Carlton even though the room was paid for by the City.

Those were the two items of conflict that we hoped to clear up.

Thank you for your prompt response,
Isabel

RE: Inspector General's Investigation of
Baltimore City State's Attorney Marilyn J. Mosby

Dear Ms. Cumming:

This responds to your follow-up email at 6:15 p.m. yesterday. To be clear, the information you "gathered" is the information my client voluntarily provided to you. The spreadsheet was created by Ms. Mosby and her staff in order to conveniently outline for you the number of trips that she made, which she disclosed on her ethics forms even though such disclosures were not even required in the first place. As you are aware, the two trips that you reference in your email were not gifted to Ms. Mosby and, as mentioned, were not required to be disclosed at all; nevertheless, she identified the events in the spreadsheet and noted in that spreadsheet that "she did not attend" to merely reflect the fact that she did not use the room that, again, was not even required to have been reported on the ethics forms. The insignificant discrepancy that you perceive could have easily been explained had you availed yourself of the opportunity to interview my client, which we repeatedly offered. These are precisely the sort of minor clarifications that can be most efficiently discussed in an interview.

Likewise, with regard to your second perceived discrepancy, we could have easily clarified for you the fact that Ms. Mosby attended a law enforcement conference along with her Chief Deputy Michael Schatzow and Commissioner Harrison, three years ago and, while she originally believed that she did not stay overnight for this event, after reviewing her calendar (previously provided to you), she now believes that she did in fact stay overnight. Obviously there was no intent to misrepresent anything because, again, she provided to you the receipts for both hotel rooms and disclosed the room expense on her ethics forms, even though she was not required to do so.

If you need further clarification or have follow-up questions, Ms. Moby continues to stand ready and willing to cooperate. I appreciate that Ms. Mosby has provided you with large volumes of information pertaining to matters and small-expense items occurring years ago, and she will continue to do her best to answer your questions. Your investigation has been open for quite some time and, for all concerned, we believe it should be concluded as soon possible. Please let us know what else could possibly be needed.

Sincerely,

Andrew Jay Graham

Dear Mr. Graham:

Thank you for your letters dated January 21st and 22nd. The Office of the Inspector General (OIG) would like to schedule an interview with your client so she can have the opportunity to answer any final questions we have. Myself and my Senior Agent are available next week via a virtual WebEx meeting. We also have a 24-foot conference room table in our large conference room, where we could safely conduct the interview in person, if you wish. Please let me know as soon as possible any potential dates and times that will work with everyone's schedule.

During the first OIG interview with your client on July 30, 2020 at her office, prior to your entry in the matter, she signed the attached Garrity warning. In order for the OIG to conduct another interview with your client, the same form would need to be signed by her. I have also attached a blank form so that you can have your client sign it prior to the interview. Please feel free to modify the original language as she now has counsel.

I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Isabel Mercedes Cumming

RE: Inspector General's Investigation of
Baltimore City State's Attorney Marilyn J. Mosby

Dear Ms. Cumming:

This responds to the letter you emailed to me at 5:11 p.m. on January 22, 2021. We are available at 10-11 a.m. on Monday, February 1, 2021. Please confirm you are available, and I will send a Zoom invitation (unfortunately we have had issues with WebEx meetings and, therefore, I prefer to use Zoom). Given Ms. Mosby's professional obligations and the extraordinary demands of her very busy Office, I hope we can finish the meeting with an hour. Based on the number and nature of your recent follow-up questions, an hour should be plenty of time.

As soon as possible and not later than close of business on Thursday, January 28, please provide me with your questions and identify any documents you may want to discuss with Ms. Mosby. Having that information in advance will allow Ms. Mosby the opportunity to research the information for you and track down the relevant documents within the huge volume of information that Ms. Mosby voluntarily provided to you. Having this information at the ready during the meeting will allow for a much more efficient discussion. Moreover, Ms. Mosby and her staff have invested an inordinate amount of time complying as carefully and responsively with your requests as possible, and they very much want to maintain their focus on essential law enforcement work for City residents. Consequently, your cooperation with our request will be in the interest of everyone's valuable time and resources.

Finally, since July 2020 when Ms. Mosby first invited your office's investigation (to demonstrate the inaccuracy of reports by certain media outlets and to put the false allegations to rest), Ms. Mosby has fully cooperated with you. She has provided an enormous volume of documents, and she has promptly responded to your follow-up requests for information or additional materials. As you know, both before and after my firm became involved, Ms. Mosby has been willing to make herself available for an interview and, indeed, you have already interviewed her once before. As we have advised, Ms. Mosby will again make herself available. Since you have already procured Ms. Mosby's signature on the form attached to your letter, and because this is a voluntarily opportunity for an exchange of information among professionals, I do not perceive it necessary for her to sign any new forms. This letter to you should suffice in that regard.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Andrew Jay Graham

Case #21-0008-I

Internal BCSAO Travel Policy

Office of the State's Attorney for Baltimore City Employee Travel Guidelines:

The Office of the State's Attorney (OSA) Employee Travel Guidelines are provided to aide travellers as they prepare to travel as a representative of the office. We encourage all staff to become familiar with travel processes to ensure compliance with the use of office funds for travel. It is understood that as a representative of the office, employees are expected to exercise the same judgment in incurring expenses that they would exercise if traveling on personal business and expending personal funds. Excess costs, delays, unnecessary accommodations and services are not acceptable and travelers will be held responsible for unauthorized costs and additional expenses incurred for personal preference or convenience. All employee travel requests must be pre-approved by your Division Chief and the Chief of Administration. Depending on if your request to travel is funded by the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention (GOCCP), the City's General Fund or a Federal Grant, there are guidelines that must be followed. If you are unsure about how your travel is funded, please contact your supervisor or the Chief of Administration.

Reimbursements: Any trips that exceed five business days or exceed $800 per person must be approved by the Board of Estimates. This is a lengthy and time-consuming process. Travel advances are generally not provided, however, employees may receive reimbursement for expenses that have been previously approved. In order to be reimbursed an employee must complete a City of Baltimore Expense Statement within 10 calendar days of returning from their trip. The date of the receipt and a description of purchase must be included on the form. All original receipts; not credit card authorizations; must be turned in along with the form. Normally there is a 3 month turn around on reimbursement checks. The checks will be mailed directly to your home address.

Cancellations: Penalties and charges resulting from the cancellation of travel reservations shall be the OSA responsibility if the cancellation or change is made at the direction or convenience of the office. If the cancellation or change is made for the personal benefit of the employee it shall be the employee's obligation to pay the penalties or charges. In the event that there is an extenuating circumstance such as a death, serious illness, accident, etc. the office may incur the costs associated with cancelled reservations.

Funding Sources: The Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention (GOCCP): The vast majority of our grants that fund training are provided by GOCCP. GOCCP sets clear limits as to what training related expenses may be reimbursed and how much can be reimbursed. If your travel is funded through a GOCCP grant please adhere to the following guidelines:

- Per Diem/ Meal Allowance is $40/day
- Mileage Maximum: $.535 cents/mile

City's General Fund or a Federal Grant: Travel that is funded through the General Fund or a federal grant must follow federal guidelines for subsistence rates (i.e. allowances for lodging, meals, and incidental expenses). Rates are set by the federal fiscal year, effective October 1, and vary significantly depending on where the event is being held. For example, the federal subsistence rate is higher for New York City, than for Birmingham, Alabama. The rates can be found online at <https://www.gsa.gov/travel/plan-book/per-diem-rates>.

Registration: Registration cost will be paid for in advance of the travelers' departure by the OSA Fiscal Officer. It is the traveler's responsibility to provide all necessary information needed to register as outlined on the Travel Reservation Form.

Airline/Train/Bus Information: Air and train travel is limited to coach fares. The Victim/Witness Relocation Coordinator is responsible for coordinating transportation arrangements. If you pay for your reservations in advance you cannot be reimbursed. The official travel agency for the office is Globetrotters Travel Agency. We do not use online vendors such as Expedia, Travelocity, etc. Travel should be planned as far in advance as possible to take advantage of discounted fares. If more than one airline offers service, arrangements will be made with the airline that offers the lowest fare. Due to the high cost of air travel employees should consider train travel vs. airline travel when considering the most cost effective mode of travel. Employees are to take the most direct and commonly traveled routes to all approved destinations. Indirect routes, unnecessary extended stops, or additional expenses for personal or unapproved reasons will not be approved. An employee must turn in all unused, partially used, and exchanged tickets. Under no circumstances should any tickets be used for any travel other than what was approved.

Hotels: If approved for overnight travel, please be prudent when choosing a hotel; most conferences offer specialized hotel group rates for attendees. The Victim/Witness Relocation Coordinator will pay for your hotel accommodations prior to your departure; however upon your arrival you will need to provide a personal credit card to cover incidentals.

Car Rentals: The office does not pay for employees to rent vehicles while traveling in another state.

Meals: Meal reimbursement requires an itemized, legible, and unaltered receipt.

- Meals must be purchased on the day of and during the times of travel for which the employee seeks reimbursement and only for items consumed by the employee during the travel period.
- Do NOT include alcohol on any receipts. Alcohol purchases cannot be reimbursed. If you order alcohol, please ask for a separate receipt.
- Please make a copy of each receipt and retain it for your records. Submit the original receipt with your expense form.

- It is preferred that each employee pays for their own meals while travelling for work as this simplifies the reimbursement process. However, if one person picks up the tab for a group of employees, please mark clearly on the receipt whose meals were covered.

Mileage: Mileage reimbursement may differ depending on the travel funds used to pay for travel. Please note that if a traveler decides to use a personal vehicle for long distance travel and the mileage is greater than train, plane, or bus you will only be reimbursed up to the cost of the lease expensive ticket. Ex. Plane ticket costs $310, mileage reimbursement totals $400.00, the maximum you will be reimbursed is $310.00. If you are carpooling, please state this clearly in your expense report. Example: I drove from my home in Downtown Baltimore to John's house in Harford County. John drove us the rest of the way to the conference in Philadelphia. I am requesting reimbursement for travel from my home to John's home. Include copies of all toll receipts, cab fares, etc. with your expense form. If you have Ezpass you can download a transaction history on their website.

Baggage: Most airlines allow one carryon bag up to 50 pounds. The office does not pay for checked bags. You should refer to your individual airline to review their policy for carry-on bag size restrictions. Amtrak has their own policy for carry-ons and checked bags. Please refer to their website for additional information.

Frequently Asked Questions:

Will the office pay for my spouse to travel with me?

The office does not pay for non-employees to travel out of state. You may contact the designated travel agency directly to coordinate and pay for your spouse.

May I stay a few extra days after the conference is over?

The office does not cover any additional expenses incurred beyond the time frame that the employee is travelling on business. You will be responsible for paying all additional expenses incurred as a result of extending your stay.

May I travel to another city instead of returning to Baltimore?

If the employee elects to travel to a different destination (other than Baltimore) at the completion of the conference they will be responsible for paying the difference in the cost of the ticket.

Will I be reimbursed for tips?

Tips for housekeeping, bellhops, food service, etc. will not be reimbursed.

Will I be reimbursed if I hire an Uber to travel from the hotel to a restaurant for dinner?

The City of Baltimore only reimburses you for a shuttle, taxi/Uber, etc. to travel from a hotel to the airport (round-trip). Travel between a hotel and venue or to area attractions is not a reimbursable expense.
